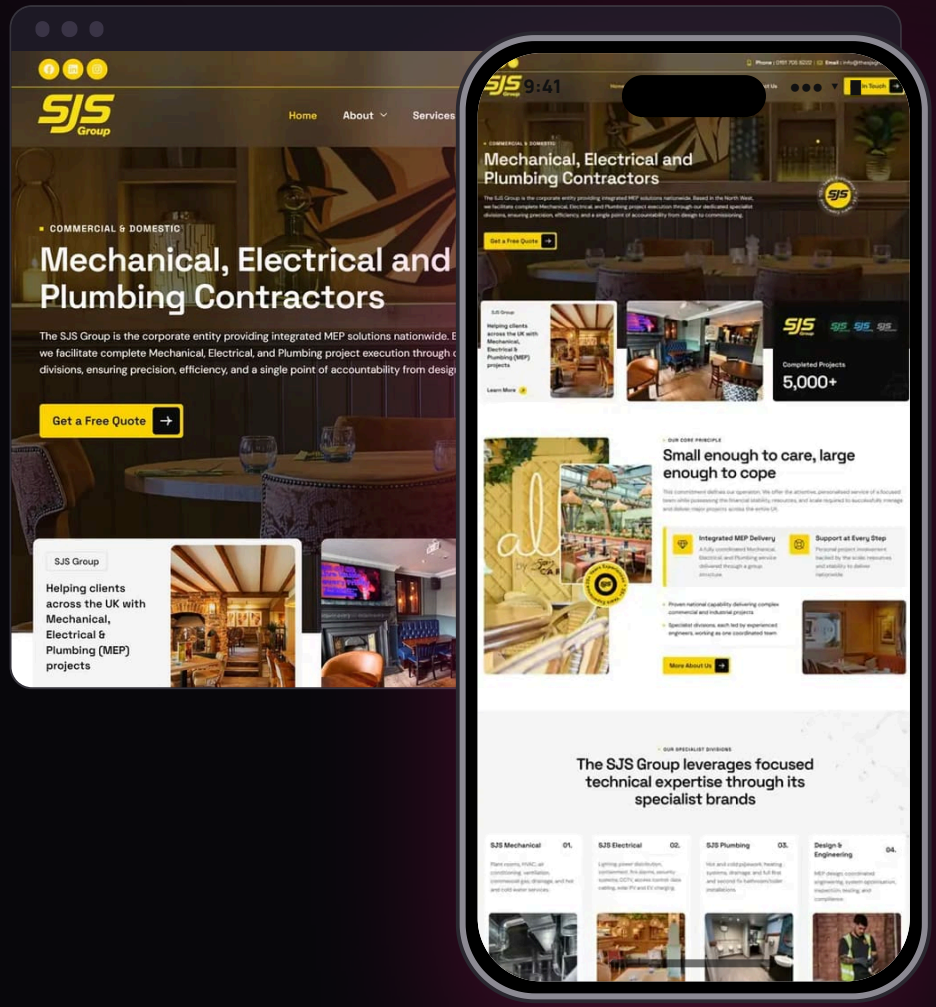
WEBSITES FOR ELECTRICIANS

Win the electrical jobs worth having.

A short guide to how customers pick an electrician now, the pages your site needs and how we build them.

- EICRs
- EV chargers
- Rewires
- Landlord work
- Town pages



HOW CUSTOMERS FIND YOU NOW

Don’t fight forty others for “electrician near me”.

The jobs worth having are searched by name and by town: EICR in your town, EV charger installation in your town, landlord certificate in your town. Before anyone calls, they check three things.

1

Are you certified?

NICEIC, NAPIT, ELECSA or Part P shown where people look for it, right in the header.

2

Do you do this job?

A page for each job you want more of, so the exact search lands on the exact answer.

3

Can you come out to me?

A page for each town you cover, set up so Google knows where you work.

4

Can AI tools name you?

ChatGPT and Google’s AI answers read clear job and town pages. Vague sites get skipped.

WHAT WE BUILD

The pages an electrician site needs.

You write nothing. We write it, you read it and nothing goes live until you are happy.

- A page per job: rewires, EICRs, EV chargers, consumer units, fault finding and outdoor lighting.
- EV charger pages that answer the grant questions people search for.
- Landlord and letting agent pages for steady certificate work.
- Scheme logos in the header and certificates explained in plain words.
- A page per town with local details so you show up across your area.
- Tap to call, WhatsApp and a quick enquiry form on every page.
